

PRIVATE REPORT ON EVERGLADES

Declares That Committee's Rulings Are Unjust — Chairman Moss Resents Insinuation.

MCABE SHOWS ANGER

Thomas Will Secured Copy of Document Which Was Suppressed.

Washington, March 24.—The Florida everglades hearing by the House Committee on Expenditures in the Agricultural Department today was marked by several lively incidents.

Bickerings of attorneys and frequent tilts between them and members of the committee occupied much of the time, and a promised sensation was averted when Solicitor McCabe, of the Agriculture Department, assured Chairman Moss that he had no desire to impugn the motives of the committee.

C. L. Goodrich, an expert agriculturalist in the department, was on the stand when objection was made to Mr. McCabe's cross-examination.

"Am I to understand that the Department of Agriculture is to be attacked and testimony supporting this attack is to get into the record, and I am not to have an opportunity to reply to it?" asked Mr. McCabe.

"It seems to me," he continued, "that the rulings have been both ways, and I submit that I have the right to show why this everglades report was held up."

"If you impugn the motives of this committee, we will settle that question in a minute," said Chairman Moss.

Mr. McCabe assured him that he meant no imputation against the committee.

The Department of Agriculture is at a loss to know how Thomas Will, who was interested in the exploitation of everglades lands in Florida, got a proof of the first report on the drainage of the wet lands of Florida, which Secretary Wilson did not approve and ordered suppressed.

Joseph A. Arnold, editor of the department's testifies before the Moss investigating committee today. He said never before, within his knowledge, had the Government Printing Office failed to preserve the integrity of a report.

Mr. Arnold said he had made no effort to find out how Mr. Will got the proof from the Government Printing Office. Under cross-examination Mr. Arnold said:

"People were writing the department and calling in person at my office and at the office of Secretary Wilson, some urging that the report be published, others protesting against it. In view of this controversy I came to the conclusion that it would be best not to print any report on the everglades."

BURNING BRIDGES

Dr. Waller Uses Art Illustration in Sermon at First Baptist.

"Burning Bridges" was the subject of a sermon preached last night by Dr. Waller at the First Baptist Church. By a peculiar coincidence a fire was burning in the eastern part of the city at the same time, threatening to burn the bridges in the vicinity and everything else inflammable.

The bridges in the sermon were the paraphernalia used by men in the pursuit of their particular form of livelihood. Some of these bridges, said Dr. Waller, if they were burned forever, would be a great benefit to the world.

Twenty millionaires in Richmond, he said, "would profess conversion and the next day roll their wastes to rest in the public graveyards."

It would have more effect on Richmond than all the preaching that could be done in two weeks.

Millions of people have been cured by using MI-O-NA Stomach Tablets, and now have strong stomachs, capable of digesting the heartiest food.

Millions of others continue to suffer from indigestion, even though MI-O-NA is guaranteed or money back.

Millions suffer from distressed stomach, acid stomach, belching of sour food, a miserable heaviness at pit of stomach, even though MI-O-NA is guaranteed or money back.

Millions parade a foul breath, display a dull eye, stand for attacks of dizziness and dizziness, even though MI-O-NA is guaranteed or money back.

Many get a nervous and irritable from fermentation of food in stomach and the action of poisonous stomach gases that they have headache regularly have bad nights sleep and become despondent and unfit for active work. And still MI-O-NA is guaranteed or money back if dissatisfied plan.

There is only one excuse, the old worn-out, banged, battered and torn excuse, the excuse of the undeveloped and the mentally deficient.

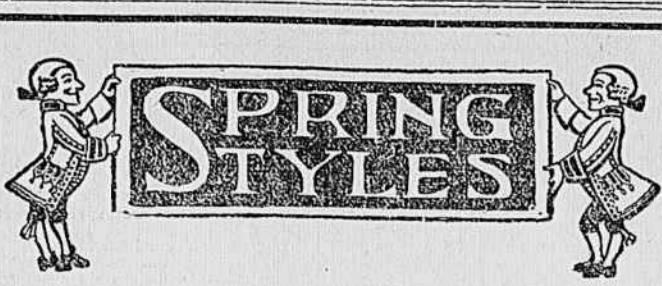

Just because—just because—that's the excuse, that's why they don't get better. That's why they don't get better. That's why they don't get better.

MI-O-NA is guaranteed or money back. Just because—it's a poor old descript excuse, but to some people it's better than none.

To all intelligent people we simply say that MI-O-NA Stomach Tablets really cost only one cent a large box, and are sold on money back if dissatisfied plan.

Virginia Girl Divorced. Deceased by Husband, Mrs. Tousey Bozeman, Nurse in Buffalo. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Buffalo, N. Y., March 26.—In Richmond, on September 10, 1906, Clarence Tousey, then twenty-five years of age, married Minnie Underhill, twenty years of age, said to have been a typical Virginia belle. Fired with an ambition to cast his lot into the more strenuous business life of the North, Tousey brought his bride to the North, and in 1908, and engaged in the business of a hotel, at which he was very successful. But Tousey had not lived long with his bride, and his wife was reported by friends of his to have been in the company of a young woman, named Clara Niagara Falls. Mrs. Tousey said that she appeared to him to bear in mind his promises made on September 10, 1906, and he said that he would believe her. DUFFY PREACHES OPENING SERMON

Many Ministers Arrive for Methodist Conference at Roanoke.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Roanoke, Va., March 26.—The large number of preachers in the congregation which assembled in the Belmont Church this evening showed that a large percentage of the clerical members of the Methodist Conference of the United States, which will be held in Roanoke, and will be present at the opening session of the conference tomorrow morning.

It is a custom of long standing in this conference that some member of the body preach what is known as the opening sermon upon the evening of the day before the conference begins its annual business sessions.

The preacher appointed to deliver this sermon this year was Rev. J. W. Duffy, D. D., of Winchester.

Words found in the tenth chapter of Luke in the Parable of the Good Samaritan, "Go Thou and Do Likewise," constituted the text of Dr. Duffy's sermon. He emphasized first the fact that the man who is impelled by the divine spirit in his life will hear himself toward other men in the manner in which that Samaritan bore himself toward the man who fell among thieves, whom the Levite and the priest passed by without extending him aid.

"The brotherhood of man," Dr. Duffy declared, "has been discussed more by men in the pulpit and out of it during the past twenty years than ever before in the history of the church." This subject, he said, is a current topic to-day because it is fundamental in every social question to be answered, and every social problem to be solved.

The discussion of the subject, however, that unless solved upon the principle as laid down by Jesus Christ in the parable of the Good Samaritan, will result in the building of a structure the foundation of which is only sand. Speaking of brotherhoods such as are organized and carried on by men for benevolent and social purposes, he said there were in some of the most commendable features, and he had no desire to condemn them, but that these organizations could not take the place of the brotherhood of man as Jesus Christ gave to the world.

He showed further that no brotherhood of man can exist without the fatherhood of God, and that the two are inseparable, and in bringing out this truth insisted that no man ever rises above his conception of God, and that if man is to have the highest ideals and live the best life, he must possess the highest and best conception of God.

Dr. Duffy showed in closing that Jesus Christ always appealed to the best in human nature, and that He wants His followers in their preaching and teaching to do the same, and in this way life humanity to the highest possible level and touch the true brotherhood of man as illustrated in the parable of the Good Samaritan, and the fatherhood of God, as illustrated in the parable of the lost sheep.

The several committees have been busy engaged to-day with the examination of candidates for admission into the conference and undergraduates in the conference course of study.

In the graveyard softly sleeping, Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one I love so dearly, In her cold and silent grave.

Dearest one, you have left me, Left the one you loved so well; But I shall hope to meet you, And together we will dwell.

You have left me broken-hearted, And all seems so dreary here; It don't seem like the same homestead, As it did when you were near.

Dear, the sun is shining brightly, And the birds sing sweet refrain; But the yearning of my heart can't be so easily slain.

Sensational Fight in Wilmington Between City and Sewerage Company.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Wilmington, N. C., March 26.—For several days Wilmington has had the sensation of a war between the city and the Wilmington Sewerage Company, one time threatening violence and menacing the health of the people. Refusing to purchase the sewerage plant and calling for bids for construction of a municipal owned system, holding that the city was not the owner, the city started the war. The sewerage company, composed of Northern men, gave notice of its intention to sue the city for the city's refusal to purchase the plant.
